Fitzgeralds Make 4-Day Tour From Manila

Dear Friends: On invitation of friends of our daughter, we made a four-day trip into the coconut groves. These friends are executives and superintendents of the manufacturing plants that reduce the raw product into the articles of commerce.

For the first forty miles of the trip we ran through regions producing sugar cane and rice. Then through coconut groves for twenty-five miles to the first manufacturing plant. Here we remained for two nights. The third day we continued along through the grove in a semi-circle for about seventy miles to the company's second plant, where we stopped for the night. In the morning we drove through the grove for a distance of about thirty miles before emerging. The superintendent told us that his is only a part of the largest coconut grove in the world.

In each of these plants about 450 native men and women are employed the year round. They work in three shifts of eight hours each day and night. The superintendent of the first plant is a native of Wisconsin and is the only white person about the plant; in fact he and his wife are the only white people in the whole region. Native foremen, timekeepers, shipping clerks, watchmen, etc., attend to detail. These have been educated in English since the American occupation and are very efficient.

Cocoanuts are swamped out to the roads on sleds drawn by men or carabao. From here they are hauled by large trucks and, on the poorer roads, on two wheeled wagons each drawn by a single carabao. In addition at one of the plants, the cocoanuts are tied into rafts and floated in to the mill on the river.

On arriving at the plant the cocoanuts are weighed and counted. The shells are removed by men and the brown covering of the meat is pared off by women. These workers receive from 20 to fifty cents per eight-hour day, depending on the amount of work done.

The shells of the nuts are used for fuel to generate electricity for running the plant. The surplus is burned into charcoal. The parings are dried for copra. The meats are then washed and sliced or shaved and ground into the coconut product that we use in making cake, candy, etc. During the refining the coconut passes through various processes of drying and cooking before it emerges from a huge apparatus in the finished state. The milk or water of the coconut is not saved.

Each factory was milling about 100,000 cocoanuts daily, producing 230 cases of coconut product, each weighing 130 pounds and all marketed in New York.

These coconut trees are usually from thirty to sixty feet high and planted twenty feet apart. Each tree has about 100 cocoanuts on it in various stages of growth from the blossoms to ripe nuts. Every thirty to forty-five days, eight to ten cocoanuts are harvested from each tree.

At one place we passed a plant where a native intoxicating drink called "tuba" is manufactured from the coconut tree. The sap of it is drawn from it up where the blossoms of the tree have been removed. Thus the nourishment that would usually go to make the coconut is taken by tapping and distilled or malted to make the Filipino heart glad and his head to ache.

The dwelling of the superintendent of the latter plant we visited was in a beautiful spot in a flat country on a river bank. The river was broad, sluggish, and the water cloudy. This would be natural as it has rained nearly ever since we landed. The weather prediction each day is, "cloudy with passing showers." These usually occur in the afternoon.

The superintendent, a native of Chicago, his wife and two children live here. Also a young man, a graduate of the University of California, who is a chemist and a relative of the president of the company, lives with them. These are the only white people living in the locality. A girl was fishing in the river close to the house. She sat in a boat and every time she cast her hook into the water she hit the surface to make a splash and attract the attention of the fish. This reminded me of a funeral that passed along the street in front of the house, headed by a brass band to attract the attention of the people.

2-INCH RAIN FOR COUNTY

Sunday Storm Heavier In Foothills Than Valley; No Damage

RAINFALL

July	.00
August	.00
September	1.63
October	2.65
Nov.	.93
Dec. 5	.19
Dec. 6	.36
Dec. 10	2.20
Total	7.96

The normal to December 1 is 7.05 inches. The normal to January 1 is 13.99 inches.

Sunday's storm brought 2.20 inches of rain to Placerville and left four inches of snow on the Echo Summit. The route to Lake Valley was cleared by the state snow plows and Monday morning was open to travel. Chains are required.

Only one minor interruption in electric service resulted from the storm although rural telephone service in some sections suffered. The high school transportation fleet all reported in Monday morning under blue skies. Telephone manager J. G. Hearn reported rural service would be completely restored Monday evening.

In Placerville, there was no report of major damage from the storm. The city hall developed leaks in several places and these were being checked Monday morning.

Some storm drains about the city were clogged with leaves and a crew was kept busy during the storm endeavoring to keep these clear and to direct into drains the high water which usually results in various areas of the city during a heavy storm.

With 2.20 inches of rain in Placerville and only .40 of an inch at Sacramento, it is apparent that the foothill areas drew more rain than did the valley. Eureka had 2.12 inches and Fresno only .06. Roseburg, Oregon, had 1.62 inches and Reno only .02 while Redding reported .61.

Pruning Series Opened Monday

Meetings Continue On Tuesday And Wednesday, Mornings And Afternoons

The series of six pruning demonstration meetings announced last week by the University Agricultural Extension Service opened Monday with two demonstrations.

The series will continue on Tuesday and will conclude on Wednesday with two demonstrations each day.

Monday morning's meeting was at the John Davey ranch at Fruit Ridge, and the afternoon meeting was at the W. J. Clark ranch at Missouri Flat.

The four remaining meetings will be held on the following schedule: Tuesday morning at ten o'clock at the Andrew Marchini ranch on Coloma Road; in the afternoon at 2 o'clock at the P. M. Holt ranch at Kelsey, and.

Wednesday morning at ten o'clock at the George Threlkel ranch at Cool; and in the afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Albert Herzig ranch, at Lotus.

Farm Advisor Addresses Folsom Prison Group

Farm Advisor Ivan Lilley spoke on practical farming to a class of inmates at Folsom prison Saturday morning at the invitation of the Rev. John Dunlop, prison chaplain. Mr. Lilley reports that his audience showed a great interest in his remarks and that many of them made it a point following the meeting to express their appreciation for his visit and to ask questions on particular phases of agriculture.

Mr. Lilley's experience was something similar to the experience of Robert Barker, who a few weeks ago was the vocal soloist at the prison chapel services. He reported he had never sung for a more appreciative audience and that a number of the prisoners greeted him personally at the close of the service to express their thanks for his visit with them.

Doesn't Need Legs

Despite the fact she lost her legs in a train mishap two years ago, Jessie Simpson, of Hackensack, N. J., receives a driver's license after a rigorous test. Her next license will be one for marriage, to James Stewart, an advertising man.

COUGARS PLAY AT ELK GROVE

Basketball Schedule Announced; Opening 3-Game Series Tonight

Cougars open their basketball schedule for the year with three practice games tonight against the Elk Grove High school A, B, and C quintets at Elk Grove.

This will be the first competition of the season for the Cougars under the supervision of Coach L. A. Brown, who was unable to be with the youngsters a week ago when they went to Folsom for a three-game set and came out on the short end of the score in every game.

At that time, Coach Brown had been called to Berkeley owing to the last illness of his mother.

The Cougars returned from Folsom smarting under the results of the night's play, not so much as a result of the scores being against them but rather due to their suspicion that officials in the games let their prejudices get the better of their judgment.

Folsom comes to Placerville for a return of the series on Friday night of this week. The balance of the Cougar hoop schedule follows:

December 20, Cougars at San Juan;

January 5, Jackson at Placerville; Jan. 12, Sutter Creek at Placerville; Jan. 19, Ione at Placerville; Jan. 26, Jackson at Placerville; Feb. 2, Cougars at Sutter Creek; and Feb. 9, Cougars at Ione.

The high school also will have a team entered in the El Dorado County league.

Around Our Town

Lion Thomas Maul, of Placerville, has been named by District Governor Leo Baisdan, of Sacramento, as chairman of the district committee on constitution and by-laws.

John H. Palmer, grammar school superintendent, was at Los Angeles during the latter part of last week, attending a meeting of leaders of the state Teachers' Association, of which he is a district representative.

A declaration of their intention to wed, accompanied by the necessary medical certificate, was filed Dec. 8th with the county clerk by Charles A. Backus, 21, and Edna Elizabeth Ronzone, 21, both of Placerville.

Warren Russell was a caller in the county seat Monday morning from Garden Valley.

Eddie Palaney, of Missouri Flat, was a caller in Placerville Monday morning.

The regular meeting of the county Farm Bureau directors will be held Thursday evening of this week at the farm advisor's office.

W. B. Parker was a caller in the county seat Monday from his home at the easterly city limits.

Earl Guernsey on Friday afternoon posted a bond of $500 in Superior Court to guarantee his compliance with the court's order that he pay $15 per month by the 15th of each month toward the support of a minor child. He had been cited on charges of failure to provide.

Peblene Knaack as executrix of the estate of Emil Nusbaumer has brought suit in Superior Court against Doris Bingham and Gilbert Perry, co-executors of the same estate, for a partition of the El Dorado County property of the estate.

AUTO SUPPLY STORE SOLD

Snow Brothers Purchase Farrell Business, Founded Three Years Ago

The H. N. Farrell auto supply store has been purchased effective December 11th by Walter Snow and Charles Snow, it was announced Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Farrell, who established the business in 1936, report they have no definite plans at present. They expect to remain here about ten days before leaving for a vacation in the southern part of the state.

The new proprietors are well known in El Dorado County.

Walter Snow has been employed in the Farrell Store for the past two and one-half years and will be the active manager of the store. He will be associated in business with his brother, Charles, who for several years past has been employed as a craftsman in the RKO studios, in the Los Angeles area.

In confirming the report of their purchase of the business Monday morning, Walter Snow said that the store's contract with the Western Auto Supply Company will be continued and that the store will carry on under the new management with the same service features which were introduced under Mr. Farrell's management.

George Preddey Died At Bay

San Francisco Man Was Son Of Pioneer Resident Of Coloma

Funeral services will be held on Tuesday at San Francisco for George Preddey, a son of the late Margaret Mahler Preddey, of Coloma, who died at the bay city Saturday.

Mr. Preddey was a brother of Walter Preddey, who has business property interests in Placerville, and was a part owner of the Main Street business location housing the Tumble Inn.

The deceased was a cousin of Mrs. Esther Mahler Petach, of this city.

He had lived for many years at San Francisco and had been employed for more than thirty years with the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company at that place. He was a member of the Masonic order.

Mr. Preddey is survived by his wife, Mrs. Maude Preddey, in addition to the brother, who are the nearest of kin.

Deer Possession Nets Man $100 Fine

Jack Koopman, of the Riverton district, arrested by Game Warden Al Sears on charges of possession of venison out of season, was fined $100 Friday by Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis. Sears was assisted in the investigation and arrest by Warden Nelson Poole.

Range Operators Should Apply Now For 1940 Program

Geo. H. Volz, chairman of the El Dorado Conservation Association today urged all range men to file applications for participation in 1940. This year's program offers greater possibilities of range improvement than ever before. Two types of practices are available, primary and supplemental. Primary practices are: Deferred grazing, artificial reseeding, contour listing, furrowing or subsolling, spreader dams and terraces, earthen tanks and reservoirs, concrete or rubble masonry dams, wells for stock water, spring development, Klamath weed control, mowing of noxious weeds, and construction of fireguards.

In connection with deferred grazing supplemental practices are offered, and include fencing, water development, erosion control, fireguards in brush areas, removal of competitive weeds and plants and rodent control. All practices are subject to approval of the county committee and prior approval must be obtained before starting work. Specifications for each project will be furnished at the time the project is approved.

New men applying for participation for the first time should have a legal description of all lands to be operated for 1940, both owned and leased. This will assist materially in completing their applications.

With the start of the program year set back to September 1st, an immediate start may be made on projects for 1940, as soon as approval is received. Applications for deferred grazing cannot be accepted after the start of the deferred grazing period. These periods are: For elevations under 1500 feet, February 15 to June 15; 1500 to 4500 feet elevation, March 15 to July 15; over 4500 feet, from start of forage growth to August 31.

A change in the classification of non-crop pasture lands for 1940 places all non-crop pasture of 200 acres or over under the range conservation program, thereby, making available to small operators the various practices included under the range program.

New Kelsey Strike Report Scouted

Reports of "a new strike" at the Alhambra mine heard in Placerville Friday and during the weekend, were scouted Monday morning by some Kelsey residents who might possibly be expected to have heard of such a development.

The report said that the operators of the Kelsey property had "struck it richer on the 300 level than they did recently on the 200."

Informed of this report, parties at Kelsey suggested that the rumor may have started in connection with the taking out of gold previously discovered and blocked out.

They had not heard in Kelsey any report of an additional strike at the Alhambra.

PEACE "TALK" IS DENIED

Finnish Reported Opening Counter-Attacks Against Reds; West Front Quiet

By JOE ALEX MORRIS U. P. Foreign News Editor

Finland carried an appeal for aid before the League of Nations assembly today while her military forces were reported counter-attacking the Red army on northern battlefields.

Dispatches filtering back from the fighting front through Scandinavian capitals reported that the Finns had struck back suddenly on the central front—where Russian troops are trying to cut Finland in two by driving toward the Swedish frontier—and had recaptured the town of Soummussalmi, north of Lake Ladoga.

Severe fighting in bitterly cold weather also was reported from the Arctic coast of Finland. One report said 9000 Russians had been cut off from their supply trains and captured and perhaps 800 had been killed or wounded in recent days.

The Allied-German war continued to play second fiddle to Finland's fight against the Red army but seven more ships were sunk in naval conflict over the week-end in addition to six sinkings last week.

The sea casualties boosted British losses in the war to approximately 100 ships of more than 400,000 tons total. In all there have almost 200 ships sunk since the war started, including about 70 neutral vessels.

As the League assembly took up the Finnish plea against Russia there was a sudden flurry of talk about a new German peace move but it was denied in Berlin that any Nazi "concessions" were planned in an effort to end the war.

Tahoe Auto Thieves Get Jail Terms

SACRAMENTO — Federal Judge Harold Lunderback sentenced Geo. Fry and Paul Isbell, each 20 and residents of Stockton, to eight months in the county jail for stealing an automobile in Stockton and driving it to Reno, Nev.

A companion, Robert Rozier, 18, applied for probation. His sentence will be pronounced December 15th.

Personality Queen

Miss Nancy Bridges, of Lebanon, Pa., named America's personality girl as climax of a nationwide contest among students of 398 leading dramatic schools, gets a $2,000 scholarship as her prize.

FREE SHOW FOR COUNTY TOTS

Placerville Merchants Sponsor Movie At Empire Saturday Morning

Whee! Another free show! Placerville merchants are going to do it again!

The merchants committee on decoration and community activities of the pre-christmas season in the county seat announced Monday that there will be another free show for the children of the county at the Empire theater on Saturday morning, December 16.

This is made possible by the co-operation of the theater management with the committee. The feature bill for the show has not been named, but Manager Otto Schmitt declares it will be a picture especially chosen for the children.

Two weeks ago the Placerville merchants were hosts to the children at a similar theater party.

Members of the merchants committee are M. T. Kelly, A. H. Murray, H. E. Dillinger, Max Baer and Albert Simon.

The same committee is receiving entries in the Christmas decorations contest in which $35 in cash prizes will be awarded. Entries, limited to Placerville residents, will close December 19th.

PLACERVILLE MAN PASSES STATE BAR TEST WITH 253 OTHERS

Daryl W. Jenkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jenkinson, of Placerville, and a graduate of the Hastings Law School at San Francisco, is one of 254 candidates who successfully passed the recent state bar examination.

This is according to an announcement Monday issued by the California State Bar, at Sacramento.

The announcement said a total of 718 applicants took the examination.

It was announced that the committee of examiners will present the names of the successful applicants to the Supreme Court in San Francisco on December 21 and in Los Angeles on January 19, for admission to the practice of law.

CASABANS MEET TUESDAY NIGHT TO REVIEW LEAGUE SCHEDULE

County basketball league officers and managers meet at the high school Tuesday night to check over the proposed schedule and clean up other details incident to getting this started for the eighth season.

According to league secretary George Duffy, it appears that there is little likelihood of getting the games started before the early part of January. This probability arises not only as a result of the difficulty in obtaining the use of the high school gym (owing to the demands for the quarters for high school purposes), but also due to the fact that with only two weeks until Christmas, the league would hardly get started, anyway.

Henderson Family Home From Louisiana Trip

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Henderson and daughter, Edna May, and son, James, of Diamond Springs, returned Friday evening to their home, concluding a three-week vacation trip to Louisiana, where Mr. and Mrs. Henderson visited their former home. Friends report that the Hendersons had an enjoyable trip and a pleasant visit.

The new officers of Fallen Leaf Chapter No. 90, O. E. S., will be installed at a meeting of the chapter at the Masonic Hall tonight, which will be convened following a supper served at 6:30 o'clock.

The outgoing heads of the chapter are Worthy Matron Laura Ball and Worthy Patron John H. Palmer.

The new staff will be headed by Mrs. Ethel Van Vleck as worthy matron and George Van Vleck as worthy patron. Other elective officers include Louisiana Schnell, associate matron; Horace G. Dunn, associate patron; Ethel Smith, conductress; May Green, associate conductress; Elizabeth Martin, secretary, and Helen Neal, treasurer. Additional officers to be installed include those of the appointive staff.

Mother Lode Group Meets

State Highway Officials Share Road Conference At Jackson Saturday

A meeting of the Mother Lode Highway Association, of which Archie Stevenot, of Merced, is president, was held Saturday night at the National Hotel at Jackson with Henry S. Lyon, George M. Smith, T. G. Patton and H. E. Dillinger representing El Dorado County.

The next meeting of the organization will be held in Auburn, at the call of the chairman.

The Saturday night meeting was considered one of special significance since three members of the state highway commission, Commissioners Bozano, of Los Angeles; Hitchcock, of Santa Rosa and Neilsen, of Fresno, were in attendance, as was the commission secretary, Byron Scott, of Long Beach, in addition to several district highway engineers.

Virginia Wilson Guest At Recent Shower

Among the recent affairs given for Miss Virginia Wilson, of White Rock, bride-elect of Jake Schneider of Sloughhouse, Sacramento county, was the miscellaneous shower at which Mrs. Bryce Euer was hostess. She entertained in the Roseville, Placer county home of her mother, Mrs. J. H. Hooper.

Among the guests were: Mesdames George A. Wilson, mother of the bride-elect; Robert Euer, Edw. Johnston, George Smith, Misses Alva Barton, Edna Smith, Theodore and Lola Wilson, all of Folsom; Mrs. William Euer of Shingle, El Dorado county; Mrs. Leland Ditch of Lodi, San Joaquin county, Mrs. Charles Mehrten of Colmanche.

3 TO 5 YEARS OF WORK IN PLACER FIELDS NEAR FAIRPLAY

William Parry and associates are to install a hydraulic elevator at the Frey placers along the middle fork of the Cosumnes river, says a Sacramento paper.

The gravel is now being worked with a dragline outfit.

Tests show unusual values well below the bed of the stream and it is this material that the elevator will bring to the surface.

The operators estimate that the 160 acres of the tract, four miles southeast of Fairplay, contain sufficient material for from three to five years' production.

SRA ADMINISTRATOR FOR DISTRICT IS AUBURNITE

Chester Hatch, an Auburn electrical dealer, has been appointed State Relief Administration director for Placer, El Dorado, Nevada and Sierra Counties. He will succeed Kenneth McCormac, former director, who has moved to San Francisco.

Headquarters for the district are maintained in Auburn, with branches in Placerville and Grass Valley.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Every once in a while I have a profound thought. It is easy for me to recognize when these spells are coming on. I feel dizzy and have a ringing in my ears that even others can hear blocks away.

The profound thought that hit me was this: Amateur athletes are either the biggest philanthropists or the biggest suckers in the world. Each day, each month, each year, the boys who can play at sport, and play it well, contribute their services for nothing or for a pitiful pittance.

Take the three bowl games, for example. The three of them will make, and this is a conservative estimate, upwards of three quarters of a million dollars. And how much of that will the players get? Practically none. Outside of a train ride and maybe $10 or $15 spending money. They will contribute their strength and skill for nothing. They will get bopped on the head. Kicked in the shins, whacked in the shoulder blades and banged hip and thigh, without remuneration.

It doesn't add up, quite. The school whose team plays in the Rose Bowl clears $100,000, enough to take care of a football squad for 10 years. A Sugar Bowl team is worth around $70,000 to the school it represents, and an Orange Bowl team around $50,000. That's quite a bit of money for boys to contribute each year. How many philanthropists do you know who are so generous? It is particularly generous on the part of the football players in the light of the fact that most of them are so in need of money themselves that they have to have help to get through school. All the boys have in the bank, so to speak, is youth and strength and skill, and they give it of with a lavish hand.

To whom? To the schools and the athletic associations and the chambers of commerce. And what does that make of the schools and the athletic associations and the chambers of commerce? Just this: Out and out promoters, with exactly the same footing in their business that Mike Jacobs has in boxing.

Football players aren't the only amateurs who contribute. Not by any means. Think of the money that Tilden and Budge and Vines and Perry and all the other tennis amateurs have made for the tennis associations of the world. The boys managed to get a little of it here and there, what with a pad on the expense account, but not much of it. And there are the baseball players, and the hockey players, and the basketball players who, with the wild growth of that game, must have made millions and millions for some one.

I don't have any particular conclusion to draw to all this, unless it be that the goose who laid the golden egg was just a piker compared to the amateur athletes of today. They are the real golden geese.

By JANE VOILES

Our friend Pomponia Pendarvis the Penwoman, is ready to shop for her Christmas gift books. Pomponia although she buys lavishly, isn't exactly the book clerk's delight. If the clerk can't find what she is looking for, she will track that volume to the basement, to the annex, or wherever else they store books for which there isn't much demand. Moreover, if a certain book is on the list for a certain person, that person will get the book even if Pomponia has to forage through all the bins in the old book shops.

"Wind, Sand and Stars" (Antoine de Exupery) is her biggest buy this season. She is giving it to almost all of the men on her list. Now Pomponia has never been in an airplane and it is doubtful if she will ever get into one.

"Why this sudden interest in a book about flying?" we asked. "Flying is the least of it," Pomponia answers. "Not only is it the most beautifully written book of the year, but it fills a spiritual need. It brings a new courage and a strange peace to a world that is sadly in need of both."

Along with each copy of "Wind, Sand and Stars" will go a copy of T. E. Lawrence's "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom." To give a single book is an awkward gesture, Pomponia believes. There must be a balance—the two points of view to savor and enjoy.

For her sophisticated niece Pomponia is buying Christopher Morley's "Kitty Foyle" and, as a counter irritant, Henry James' "Portrait of a Lady." A neat combination, but for another niece she chooses two such disparate books as Thomas Mann's "Magic Mountain" and Thomas Mann's "Magis Mountain" hitabel. That niece needs to have the vista that "The Magic Mountain" will give her and the jolt to her "nicey-niceyness" from Don Marquis.

To her maiden aunt who has two hobbies—short trips and cats Pomponia is giving Hildegarde Hawthorne's "Romantic Cities of California" which is full of suggestions for little trips and Agnes Repplier's book about Cats.

For her neighbor who wants to go in for culture in a big way, she is buying Irwin Edman's new book,

"Arts and the Man," but lest the neighbor become too ivory-towerish and lose sight of the other side of life, she is giving her a copy of Ring Lardner's short stories, "The Hair Cut."

Pomponia is making an exception of the children on her list. They are going to get a single book and not a juvenile. It is Henry Hudson's "Green Mansions." This book stretches the imagination and children will grow up to it.

For the neighbor who has redecorated her living room Pomponia is buying the lovely Random House edition of Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina." It is quite as decorative as an alabaster lamp or a Della Robbin plaque. With the "Anna Karenina" will go a Kathleen Norris novel.

"After all, Kathleen Norris has been writing for a good quarter of a century," Pomponia asserts, "she has opened the way to wider reading for thousands. Maybe she is sentimental, but so is John Steinbeck."

For the uncle who likes to read "history" she is buying Henry Pringle's "Life and Times of William Howard Taft," and for a ballast, Parkman's "Montcalm and Wolfe." We may call Parkman a romantic historian today but his books are still "fascinating to the last sentence."

To another uncle who is interested in theories of government, she is giving Raymond Moley's "After Seven Years," and with it the best book according to her light, on democracy, Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court."

To her doctor, she is giving a subscription to Atlantic Monthly some rare editions of Oliver Wendell Holmes, and the recently published "Autobiography," of Havelock Ellis. Which brings us to Pomponia's Christmas cards. Every year Pomponia has a quotation from one of her favorite writers on her cards. This year, it is a quotation from Havelock Ellis—"To transform the spirit of love into light that shall illuminate the night of life for those who pass darkly through it—that is the function of the light house and the humblest human glow-worm who is merely true to himself, in indirectionally doing just that."

BEWARE OF TRICHINOSIS, STATE HEALTH BUREAU WARNS

The state department of public health has issued a warning against the dangers of trichinosis, a disease sometimes fatal, announcing that 75 per cent of all cases of the malady in California have been caused by the consumption of raw pork products.

The statement said that, at this season of the year, many foreign-born California residents eat home prepared sausage, salami and similar products without cooking. Records show 833 cases of the disease since 1912, although it is an established fact, the department said, that trichinosis would disappear entirely if all pork meat and pork products were cooked thoroughly before consumption.

"We cannot do ALL the dry cleaning in the city--so we prefer to do only the BEST"

Frankly, we are not out to do all the dry-cleaning business in town. To do that, we should have to cut prices below the point at which good work can be done—and this we will never do. What we want to do is only that business which can be done the right way to people who appreciate that good cleaning is the only truly economical kind.

tendants are owned, furnished, food supplied by the coconut barons. All household duties are performed by native servants also at the expense of the company.

Banana trees, producing a large yield of bananas are seen everywhere. Bamboo grows extensively, especially along the streams. Plenty of lumber of the hardwood variety is seen here in the islands.

The climate, to my mind, is not really delightful. Manila, a city about the size of New Orleans, is situated well within the torrid zone, being about 15 degrees north of the equator. In the afternoons the temperature will reach just below ninety degrees, while about 5:00 o'clock in the morning it will be around 75. The moisture content of the air is always heavy and depressing with scarcely any breeze blowing. During our sleeping hours we usually keep the electric fan running across the bed during the entire night. A common sheet is sufficient cover and often too much. The lightest possible clothing is worn during the daytime.

While at one of the coconut plantations, we visited the school in the little town nearby. It was taught by a man principal and three lady assistants, all native Filipinos. The four rooms contained a few over two hundred pupils, better than fifty in each room. They were glad to have us visit them when we told them we were teachers from California. One of the teachers told us that she received a monthly salary of what would be $25 in United States money. She seemed to think this was a nice salary.

Today is a big holiday for the Filipinos, it being the fourth anniversary of the institution of the "Commonwealth of the Philippines."—11,000 native soldiers paraded and their president broadcast a wonderful speech to his subjects.

E. J. FITZGERALD,
Manila, Nov. 15, 1939.

SHRINE CEREMONIAL HAS TWO CANDIDATES FOR COUNTY

Approximately three thousand Shriners including members from El Dorado County met at the Sacramento Memorial Auditorium Saturday evening for a ceremonial conducted by Ben Ali temple.

Thirty-six candidates were presented for initiation and among those who tread the burning sands were H. B. Fowler and Elwood A. Brewster, of Placerville.

There were approximately a dozen members of the order from El Dorado County who attended the ceremonial.

CAMINO FARM CENTER DECEMBER MEETING IS POSTPONED

The meeting of the Camino Farm Center, usually held on the second Tuesday of the month, has been postponed from December 12th. Center Chairman W. P. Fassett, in announcing postponement of the meeting, did not set a date for the gathering. It was noted that there is some work to be done on the center clubhouse and the chairman indicated that the center meeting may be combined with a meeting to accomplish the needed work.
